

Stripe Sub-Processors List

Last updated: September 27, 2026

To support Stripe in delivering its Services, Stripe engages service providers, Sub-Processors and affiliates to assist Stripe with its data processing activities on behalf of Stripe Business Users as defined in our Stripe Services Agreement.

Summary of Changes

We've updated this page because we strive to be clear about our use of Personal Data and the third party service providers we engage. The below outlines a few highlights of the changes we made, so please review this page carefully. If you have questions or queries, please contact us.

You will see that in our List of Affiliates we have:

- removed all references to Stripe, Inc., as this entity no longer exists
- removed Stripe Payments Europe, Limited - Italian Branch, and added our new Italian Affiliate, Stripe Italy S.r.l.
- added Metronome Technologies, Inc., a company Stripe acquired
- updated the name of LemonSqueezy, LLC to its new name Sold Through Link, LLC
- added Microsoft Corporation and Snowflake, Inc. as cloud service providers
- added a new dedicated section for Data Pipeline and added five Cloud service providers for Stripe Data Pipeline: Amazon Web Services, Inc., Databricks, Inc., Google LLC, Microsoft Corporation, and Snowflake Inc.
- updated the purpose of processing description for Adish Co., Ltd. by removing “in Japanese”

- moved Inscribe AI, Inc. from the Identity subsection to the general list of Sub-processors since we also use this party for other Capital and Financial Connections
- added a new subsection for Consumer Issuing and added two Sub-processors to this category: LoanPro Software, LLC and January Technologies, Inc.
- removed Mitek Systems, Inc.
- added direct links to acquired Affiliate’s own sub-processors list for Bridge, TaxJar, and Privy
- updated the list of Service Providers for Terminal with new fulfillment and distribution partners

What is a Sub-processor?

When Stripe engages third party service providers in our capacity as a data processor for our Business Users’ personal data, the General Data Protection Regulation (“GDPR”) and a number of other global privacy frameworks call these third-party service providers sub-processors. Sub-processors are service providers who have or potentially will have access to or process personal data that Stripe processes for, and on behalf of, Stripe’s Business Users.

This page outlines the types of service providers, Sub-processors, and affiliates we utilize, where they are located, and a description of the work they carry out.

Due Diligence

Before engaging any service provider (including Sub-processors), we perform due diligence, including a vendor security assessment. Our service providers are subject to contract terms designed to ensure that these service providers process personal data only for the purposes of providing services to Stripe and in accordance with our commitments to Business Users and applicable data protection laws.

Updates to this Page

Due to the nature of our global business and the volume of Business Users, our business needs and services providers may change from time to time. For example, we may deprecate a service provider to consolidate and minimize our use of service providers. Similarly, we may add a service provider if we believe that doing so will enhance our ability to deliver our Services.

We will periodically update this page to reflect additions and removals to our list of service providers, Sub-processors and Affiliates. If you are a Business User, you may subscribe to receive email notifications of updates to our list of Sub-processors on this page here.

Under the terms of our Data Processing Agreement (DPA), a Business User may reasonably object in writing to the processing of its personal data by a new Sub-processor within 30 days following the update of this page. If a Business User does not object during the 30 day time period, the appointment of the new Sub-processor shall be deemed accepted by the Business User. If you are a Business User and want to know more about our DPA, please contact us.

For more information on Stripe's privacy practices, please visit our Privacy Policy. If you have any questions regarding this page, please contact us.
